

Do not weaken the protection New Jersey has provided its citizenry against unwanted telemarketers' calls which are intrusive and violative of personal privacy. Citizens who wish to conduct business over the telephone have at least two options: (1) calling the business themselves or (2) refusing to sign up for this ban on unwanted telemarketer calls. Businesses do not have a first amendment right to place calls to anyone against their will anymore than they have a right to drag you into their place of business to deliver a sales pitch to you. Please protect the public but leaving this New Jersey law in full effect.
